MISSED AN EVENT?

We Started with the Students

We conducted an exploratory student survey with 22 responses, primarily from second-year students.

RESEARCH SCOPE

Method Google Forms survey

Participants 22 students

Sample Primarily second-year students

Focus

Event discovery

Event information

Registration

Post-registration tracking

WHAT WE ASKED

9 questions on the Google Form

- | | |
|---|--|
| Q1 How students find out about events | Q6 Ease of tracking after registering (1–5) |
| Q2 How easy event information is to find (1–5) | Q7 Information hardest to locate |
| Q3 Missed an event for not knowing in time? | Q8 Would you use one central platform? |
| Q4 Biggest difficulty when registering | Q9 Most useful features |
| Q5 Searching WhatsApp / other platforms | |

Who Are We Designing For?

Aarav Kumar

20 | CSE | CUTM
Undergraduate

I want to know what's happening on campus without having to search everywhere.

GOALS

- Discover relevant events
- Find complete information
- Register quickly
- Track registrations
- Avoid missing deadlines

PAIN POINTS

- Fragmented information
- Late discovery
- Hard-to-find registration links
- Unclear deadlines
- Difficult tracking

BEHAVIOUR

Uses smartphone + laptop

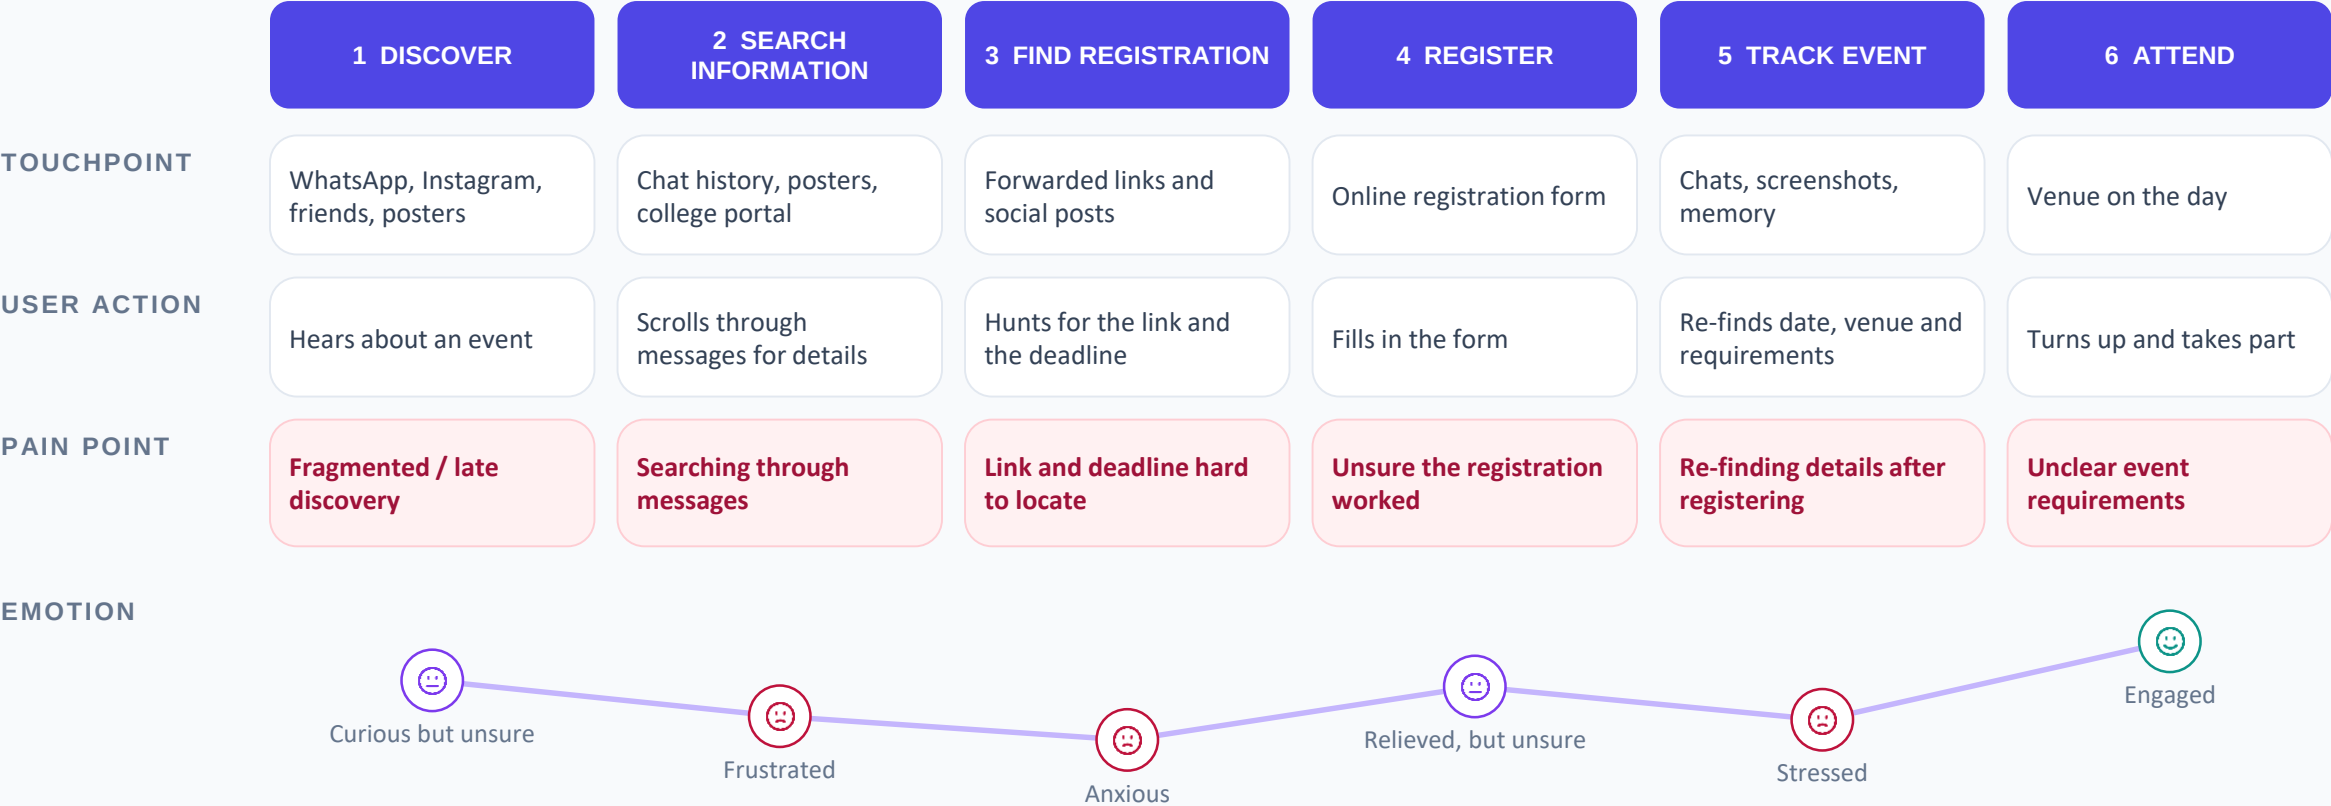

Comfortable with digital platforms

Discovers events through multiple channels

Representative persona synthesized from survey findings.

Mapping the Current Customer Journey

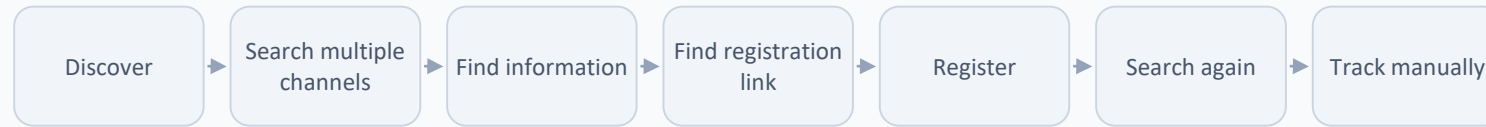

The journey revealed friction across discovery, information retrieval, registration and post-registration tracking.

Emotions are the team’s interpretation of the journey.

From Pain Points to Design Opportunity

CURRENT EXPERIENCE

DESIGNED EXPERIENCE

DESIGN GOAL

Create a centralized, low-friction experience for discovering, registering for and managing campus events.

We didn't just add features: each CX finding became a design requirement.

Translating the CX Journey into the Product

USER FLOW

Discover

One place to find campus events, with search and filters.

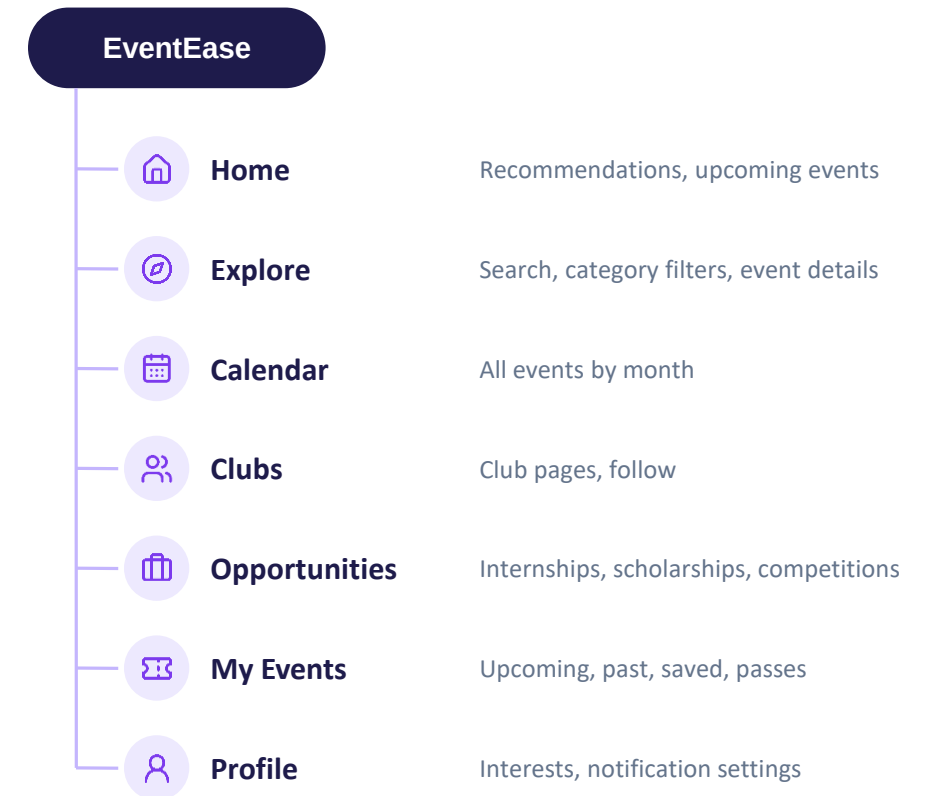

Understand & register

Complete details, then a clear confirmation.

Manage & reflect

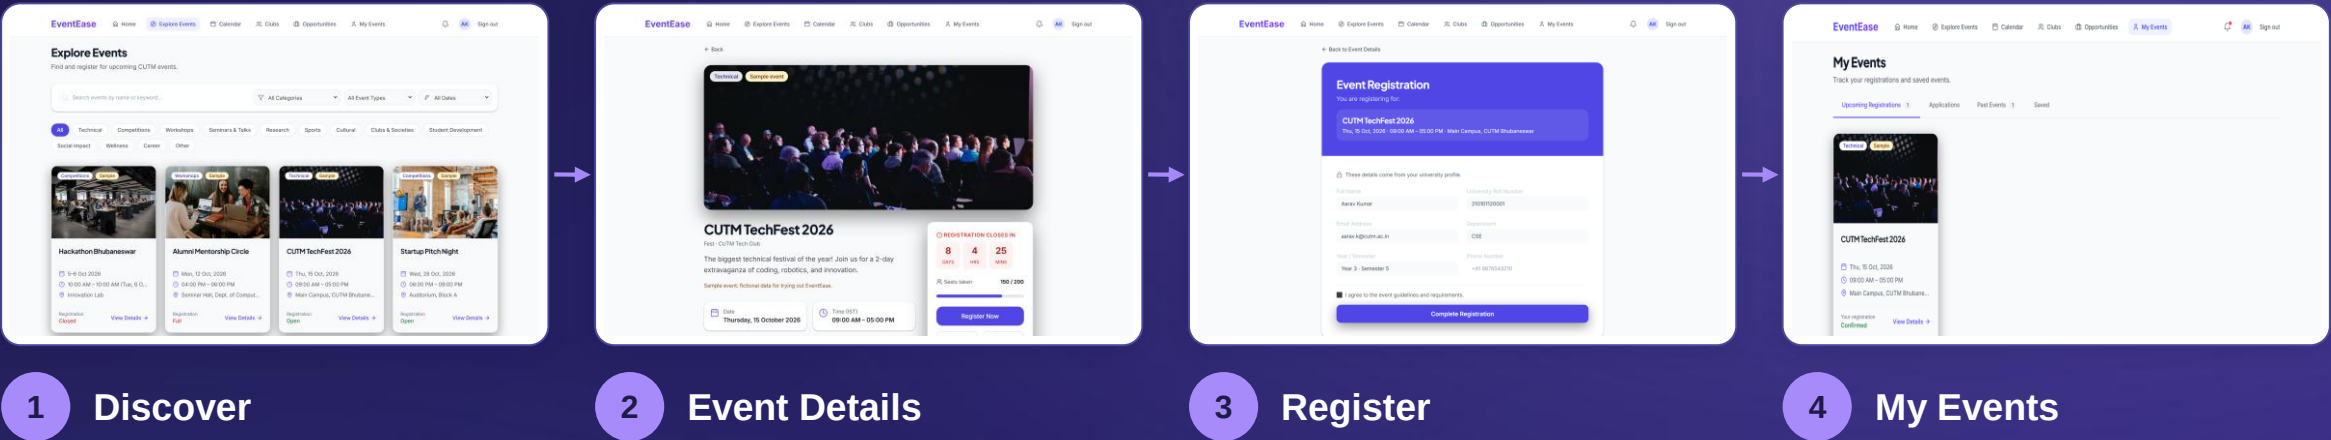

Registrations, reminders and feedback in one place.

INFORMATION ARCHITECTURE

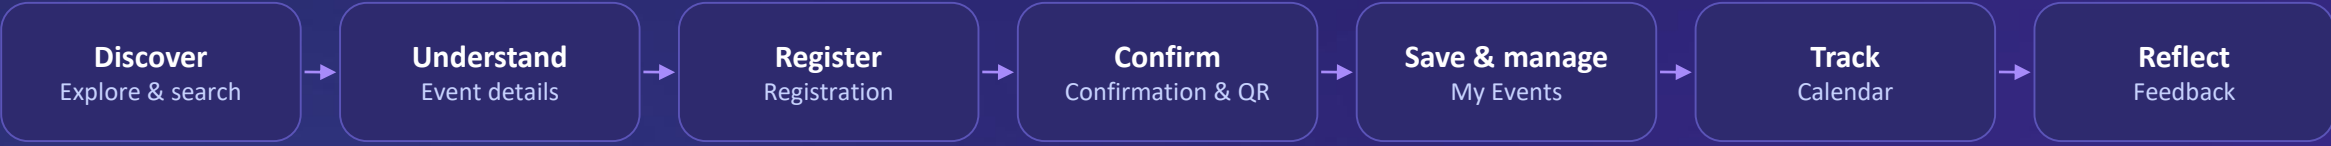

The future-state CX journey was translated into the platform's interaction flow and information architecture.

Let's Experience the Designed Journey

LIVE PROTOTYPE

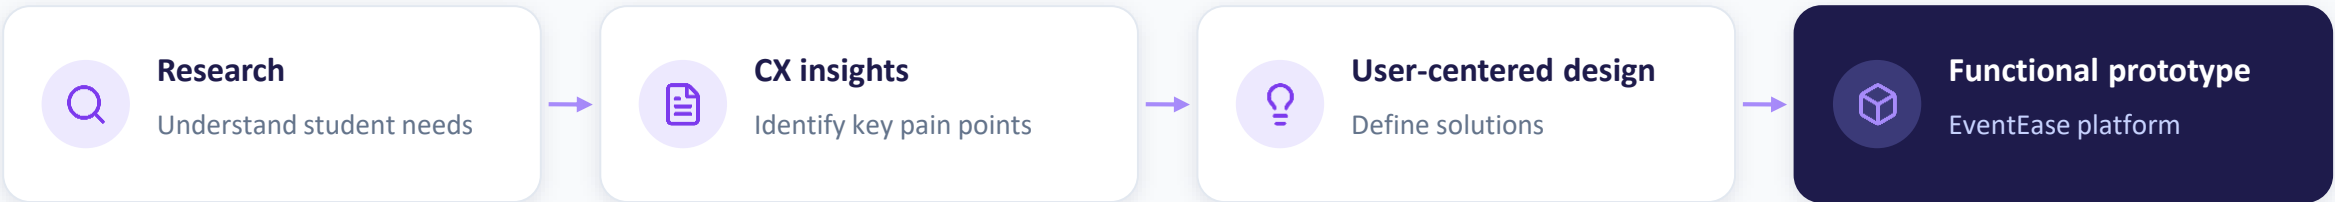

“Let’s imagine Aarav has just heard about an event.”

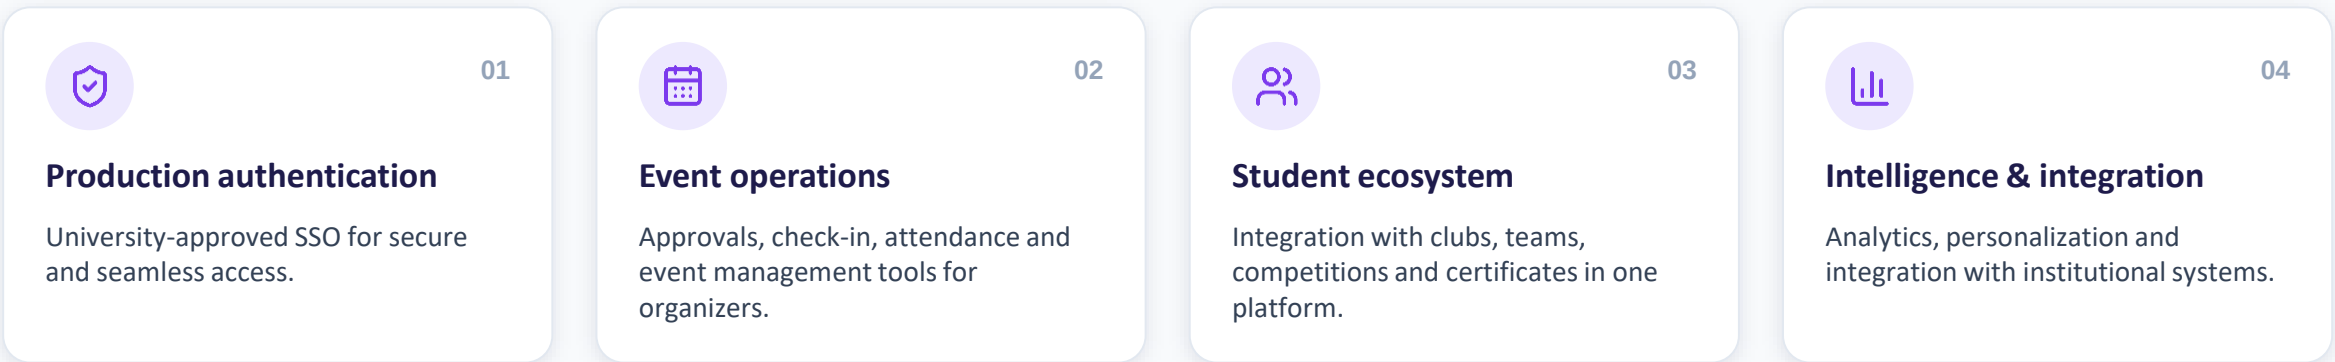

From CX Problem to Digital Experience

We used student research to transform a fragmented campus-event experience into a centralized digital journey.

FUTURE SCOPE

Current status: Functional academic prototype — not deployed at CUTM.

EventEase turns “Where did I find that event?” into “Everything I need is here.”
